

SAY!
(By CHARLES J. ARNOLD)

Little grains of mustard
When to powder got
Make a mighty plaster
Full of red and hot.

If I had wanted it to rain this morning, it would not have rained, but, honest folks, its time us farmers were getting our oats planted, sowed or whatever you do with them. And I do not mean "wild oats" either. The weather does not make much difference with the planting of the wild variety.

Tell me Russell Brown is not an expert with an automobile. I saw him yesterday morning down on north College Avenue at the wheel of an "outlaw" and what he was doing with it was truly spectacular. It was bucking, "rarin" and pitchin', but Russell sat it like a master and as long as I watched him he did not "pull leather." I never have seen him since to get an explanation of what made the auto wild, but it sure was. I drove up behind him and, as he had the road blocked, I had to hesitate quite a bit before I could dodge around him and I had more sense than to stop and go back to inquire at that time.

Prohibition News—Wisconsin has gone "Wet."

"Brother" Shumaker, on being released from the State Farm, this morning, stated that he had had the "time of his life" while at the Farm. Well, had he known that he was going to have had such a good time he probably would not have made such great effort to keep away. And should he want to return, he should have no trouble in finding a way.

I had the pleasure this morning of a visit by Eugene J. Cadou staff Correspondent for the International News Service in Indianapolis. He stopped off en route home from the State Farm, where he went to see Dr. Shumaker make his triumphant exit. These staff correspondents probably regret the close of the Shumaker incident, as it certainly supplied material for a lot of good stories.

Notice—Repairs have been received and installed on my patent lighter and it is now hitting on all one cylinder and everything.

Traffic Rule—Motorists will please refrain from bumping into the sidewalks around the court house. They might fall down and make an awful muss.

Good morning, gentlemen, have you purchased a nice rake and garden hoe for the wife? Radish season is here and the wife should have some work to substitute for stoking the furnace.

Remember, last spring, when I won a prize for telling "Why I Plant a Garden." The Perry Seed Co. sent me the award and just to prove to them that I am appreciative I bought a dime package of radish seeds the other day, and this year I really am going to plant a garden. So there.

I'll bet the State Farm cows will miss Dr. Shumaker. And I'll bet that from here on out he will not kick about the price of milk.

Indiana today has two state Highway Commission heads. Both Mr. Williams and Mr. Brown are claiming the office. Mr. Williams by right of possession and Mr. Brown by right of election. But it always has been said that two heads were better than one.

"LADIES NIGHT" IS BIG SUCCESS

One of the most successful affairs ever held by the Rotary Club was the dinner given by the members for their wives Wednesday evening at the Country Club. There were about seventy-five members and guests in attendance. A delicious dinner was served by the Country Club chef at 6:30 o'clock and was the feature of the evening. Music for the occasion was furnished by Clair Hull and his orchestra.

Following the dinner new officers were installed as follows: W. L. "Bish" Hughes, athletic director of DePauw, president; William Peck, vice president; Charles Rector, treasurer; J. T. Christie, sergeant-at-arms and John Cannon and Mayor Charles McGaughey as directors.

During the evening a number of couples participated in dancing. Annually the Rotary members observe "Ladies Night" and the affair last night was judged the most delightful ever given.

A. G. BROWN IS SPEAKER BEFORE KIWANIS CLUB

HISTORY OF INDIANA BANKERS ASSOCIATION AND PRESENT BANKING PRACTICES DISCUSSED BY LOCAL BANKER AT LUNCHEON

MEET AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

History Of Vigilante System Outlined by Local Bank Head—Banks Also Have Tax Problem

A. G. Brown, president of the First National Bank, was the speaker before the Greencastle Kiwanis Club at its noon day luncheon at the Christian Church today. Mr. Brown discussed the history of the Indiana Bankers Association, of which he is president, and also outlined present day banking practices. His talk in part follows:

"The Indiana Bankers Association was formed first by a group of bankers representing about one hundred banks of the state who felt the need of co-ordination of efforts. Among those most active in the formulation of the Indiana Bankers Association was the late Robert L. O'Hair of Greencastle, whom all of you know, and who himself was the sixth president of the Indiana Bankers Association, having served in 1903.

"The matter of history of such an association is of no current interest and is perhaps not unlike the progress of scores of other professional and trade associations to which many of you belong. Membership is now held by practically all of the thousand State, National and Private Banks of Indiana, each paying dues in amounts into the association according to the size of the capital investment of the bank. Each year, particularly during the last twelve that I have had active contact with it, sees some particular problem of the banker brought to the forefront and its solution sponsored as the main program or activity of the association.

"You will perhaps remember, four years ago the press reports of nine bank holdups in nine days. This so aroused Governor Jackson that he called a conference and offered to call out the State Militia to protect the banks, but Indiana Bankers responded by organizing the vigilante system of supplementing the efforts of the regular organized peace officers to the extent that twenty-five hundred men in 72 of the 92 counties of the State armed with 5,000 guns and 50,000 rounds of ammunition, stepped into the breach and behind a barrage of faithful publicity, not only held the bandit at bay, but literally ran him out of the State.

"Another subject of extraordinary interest to banks at the present time is that of taxation. You may think the farmer has the only right to discuss taxation in the light of its unfairness to him. Personally I feel that the so called agricultural problem is in reality a problem of taxation. In observing farmers credit financial statements taken each year I am convinced that the increase, or rather the excess of taxation that he pays, represents in many instances his margin of safety, the margin of profit diminishing with his increased tax burdens and with it the dissatisfaction that follows any legitimate effort that ends in defeat. The farmers property, land and personal property pays its full share of taxes. Like bank stock it cannot hide and must continue to carry its increased burden as we demand better schools and gymnasiums, better and safer roads.

"Farm property and bank shares are the only two classes of property that apparently have been unable to find a haven of evasion. 'Tax dodgers' cannot be a proper reference to the farmer or banker. Indiana's antiquated tax structure anticipates the taxation of only that property that cannot hide itself, except where un-

Suit of William Benjamin Tinch and others, against A. G. Brown, executor of the last will and testament of Harrison B. Tinch, and others, a complaint to contest the will and codicils thereto and set aside probate thereof, filed in the Putnam Circuit court last June 30, has been dismissed by the plaintiffs.

COURT BATTLE LOOMS AS TWO CLAIM OFFICE

JOHN D. WILLIAMS AND JOHN J. BROWN BOTH CLAIMANTS OF OFFICE OF STATE HIGHWAY DIRECTOR

COMMISSION OUSTS WILLIAMS

Commission Head Hope to Take Case to Courts to Prove That Members Were Not Competent to Judge Him

By EUGENE J. CADOU
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Apr. 4.—Two prominent politicians today held forth at offices of the state highway commission, each claiming that he was the commission director, a $7,500 state job.

They were John D. Williams, who held unchallenged sway as director for seven years until he was voted out of office by the members of the highway commission yesterday afternoon and John J. Brown, of Rockport, former secretary to Governor Harry G. Leslie, chosen by the commissioners as the successor to Williams, a short time after Williams was alleged to have been ousted.

With Williams taking all possible steps to retain his office on the contention that commissioners were not legally entitled to be the judges in the ouster proceedings, a lengthy court battle loomed as a possibility similar to the aftermath of the fall of John D. Duvall as mayor of Indianapolis.

Williams issued order to an official of the Bankers' Trust Company of Indianapolis to refrain from honoring checks drawn against the revolving fund of the commission from which salaries are paid unless they bore his signature. The bank account is listed under the heading of "John D. Williams, director."

It was the hope of Williams and his attorney, James Bingham that the case would be taken to the courts preferably by the filing by the commissioners of quo warranto proceedings. Bingham believes he can prove that the commissioners, because of their alleged "prejudging" of the case against Williams were not competent to serve as his judges in the brief ouster hearing yesterday afternoon.

Upon the theory that the commissioners were not competent judges, Williams and his attorneys retired from the hearing after the commissioners had overruled a motion of Bingham seeking a change of judges.

The commissioners, after Williams and his lawyers stalked from the room, heard the testimony of five witnesses, then conferred for a few moments and announced that the highway director had been proved guilty of inefficiency and neglect of duty.

Bingham contends that the next move is up to the commission.

"This case is about like that of a tenant whom a landlord has ordered out," he said. "When the tenant refuses to get out the landlord has to go to court."

Political observers here today recalled the similarity of the present situation to that which prevailed when the city council voted Mayor John L. Duvall of Indianapolis out of office. Afterwards, two persons battled for the position and armed policemen stalked the corridors of the city hall.

During the seven years that Williams was director of the commission he supervised the expenditure of more than $100,000,000 for paying 1,800 miles of roads and for maintenance of highways.

HUGE THRONG BIDS FAREWELL TO HERRICK

FRENCH AMBASSADOR HONORED IN DEATH WITH A NATIONAL FUNERAL—PERSHING DELIVERS FIRST FUNERAL ORATION ON BEHALF OF U. S.

By FREDERICK K. ABBOTT
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
PARIS, April 4.—France bade farewell to her "beloved friend," Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, today by honoring him in death. As she never before has honored a foreign envoy—with a national funeral.

The ceremonies, most impressive and solemn in their simplicity and sincerity, were witnessed by a throng rivalling that which attended the funeral of Marshal Foch nine days ago.

There was sorrow in the air and a deep sadness visible on every face as France's sons, from the humblest to the most distinguished, paid a final tribute to the man whom she regarded almost as a son also.

The ceremonies began at the American embassy where an impressive array of members of the American and French governments, the diplomatic corps and representatives of American organizations in France surrounded the flag-draped coffin of the Ambassador reposing in the Grand Salon.

General John J. Pershing, commander in chief of the American expeditionary forces during the world war, and an intimate friend of the late ambassador, sadly delivered the first funeral oration on behalf of the United States.

He called his departed friend a "true soldier" and likened him to the late Marshal Foch for his human qualities and bravery.

"Ambassador Myron T. Herrick was a true soldier, our first volunteer when he said 'If there is no one left in Paris to defend it, I will be that one,'" said General Pershing.

"He was a diplomat of the highest type. He anticipated difficult situations and always was his government's most trusted advisor."

BIG DELEGATION ON HAND TO MEET DRY LEADER

LEAVES INDIANA STATE FARM SEVEN POUNDS LIGHTER THAN WHEN HE ENTERED 34 DAYS AGO

TWENTY AUTOS CARRY FRIENDS

"Enjoyed Every Minute Of It," Noted Dry Leader Tells Friends — Brief Ceremony At Prison Gates

PUTNAMVILLE, Ind., April 4.—(INS)—Seven pounds lighter but claiming to have had "the time of his life" Dr. E. S. Shumaker, militant superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, was released from the Indiana State Farm here at 9:05 a. m. today after completing his 60-day term for contempt of the Indiana Supreme Court. Good behavior reduced his imprisonment to 53 days.

"I enjoyed every minute of it," Dr. Shumaker told newspapermen as he emerged from the "fish" room where the state farm inmates are both dressed in and dressed out. "My color is better than it has been for years. I got rid of a lot of surplus fat at the church in the state farm dairy department."

The noted dry leader's clothes distinctly showed his shrinkage from 170 to 163 pounds, for they were very apparently too large for him.

Twenty automobile loads of relatives, friends, welcoming delegations newspapermen and photographers were lined up at the gates of the state farm awaiting the appearance of Dr. Shumaker. The prison authorities permitted only one automobile to enter the grounds. This car contained Mrs. Shumaker, Albert Morrison, son in law of Dr. Shumaker, P. L. Morrison, father of Albert.

Dr. Shumaker embraced and kissed his wife.

"Hello dear, how are you Mamma?" he greeted her. There were tears of joy in her eyes.

Photographers surrounded the happy couple and asked the dry chief to pose on the steps of the prison headquarters building. Mrs. Shumaker wanted to edge out of the picture but Dr. Shumaker pulled her back.

Just before Dr. Shumaker came out of the headquarters building a near cloudburst deluged the prison grounds but as the dry leader stepped out the sun burst through the clouds.

"A bright omen for the future," one of the Shumaker party cried out and Dr. Shumaker grinned.

"Mamma, I want you to meet someone," Dr. Shumaker said turning to J. F. Morpheus, superintendent of the prison dairy department under whom Dr. Shumaker looked after forty sleek Holstein cows in the department. "This is Mr. Morpheus."

Mrs. Shumaker, smilingly shook hands with Morpheus.

A little foresight will mean a finer garden

THERE is a surprise when you first taste the melting sweetness of Ferry's sweet corn. It is not ordinary sweet corn by any means. Nor is a plump, red, smooth-skinned Ferry tomato like an ordinary tomato. Nor are the Ferry's Seeds that grow these like ordinary seeds.

Remember that when you buy

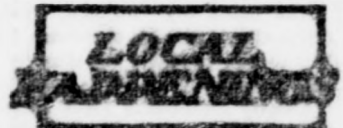

Ferry's purebred Seeds, you buy inherited quality. Quality is bred into the seeds. A careful up-breeding of vegetables and flowers has been going on in the Ferry trial gardens for 51 years. This means that the Ferry's Seeds you can plant today came from parent plants and grandparent plants that were themselves purebred. Sixty thousand tests are made annually in the Ferry gardens for germination. Thousands of other trials are made for size, form, color, resistance to disease. So far as is humanly possible, we determine that every crop will meet the Ferry standards.

Ferry's Seeds are easy for amateurs to make grow well, and are naturally the choice of professional gardeners. They are fresh for planting now, at the "store around the corner." No packet of Ferry's Seeds is ever carried over by the dealer for sale the second season. Send for the Ferry's Seed Annual. It is more than a catalog. Address D. M. Ferry & Co., Dept. H, Detroit, Michigan.

Your garden will have its best possible start with Ferry's purebred Seeds.

The petitioner alleges that under the terms of a will of Isabella Whitson Wellman, late of Quincy, one-third of her estate amounting to the above sum, was left to the Chambers, to revert to the claimant on their deaths. She asks the court that the administrator, William A. Kreigh, be required to honor her claim prior to other claims.

SCHOOL GIRL TAKES LIFE

INDIANAPOLIS, Apr. 4.—(INS)—Mary Settles, pretty 16-year old Fountain town high school girl, was dead today from a self-inflicted shotgun wound in the abdomen.

Despondent because of ill health which had forced her to leave school the girl got her father's shotgun while she was alone at the Settles farm home late yesterday and fired a load into her side.

The girl was rushed to the local hospital and died about three hours after arrival here. Deputy Coroner O. H. Bakemeier after an investigation ordered the body released to a New Palestine undertaker.

DRY INFORMER RETURNS TO FACE ARREST

DENIES HE FLED AURORA TO ESCAPE ARREST ON CHARGE OF PERJURY—FOUND IN SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

AURORA, Ill., April 4.—(INS)—Eugene Boyd Fairchild, dry informer whose admittedly false affidavit describing the purchase of liquor from Mrs. Lillian DeKing led to her death in a dry raid on her home, was back in Aurora today where he faces arrest on a perjury charge.

Fairchild, who "disappeared" shortly before the perjury warrant was issued on his own admissions during the inquest at Geneva, was found in Springfield, Ill., by a representative of International News Service after officials of Kane county had been unable to locate him.

The dry sleuth returned voluntarily to Kane county, stating he had not "run away," and that he was anxious to tell his side of the story.

Fairchild bitterly denounced state's attorney, George Carbery of Kane county and his chief prohibition investigator Walter Millar. He declared Millar gave him $15 and told him to "get out of town and stay out for a while."

Millar today admitted he gave Fairchild the money, but denied that he told him to leave town. He said Fairchild said he was "broke" but did not say what he wanted the money for.

"I am not fleeing justice," Fairchild told the reporter who located him. "I left Geneva hours before that warrant charging me with perjury was issued."

"I came to Springfield to see my lawyer."

"I'm not trying to hide. I'm sick and tired of being pushed around by Carbery and Millar. They've been making me the goat and I'm just beginning to wake up."

At Tuesday's inquest at Geneva Fairchild admitted before the coroner's jury that his sworn statement that he had purchased liquor from Mrs. DeKing was false. He was subsequently charged with perjury.

The Citizens Trust Co., administrator of the estate of Edmond F. Watts, deceased, has filed a petition in the Putnam Circuit court to purchase a $500 monument from the Clark Granite and Marble Co., to mark the grave of the deceased in Forest Hill cemetery.

der the subterfuge of the law it compromises with the despicable tax revolt and splits the pound of flesh that not having returned for taxation has avoid confiscation by following the human law of self preservation. The Indiana Bankers Association sees in the offering relief from this unfair system, and though it may be misunderstood by many, if successful, it will surely precipitate the rebuilding of Indiana's tax structure after the pattern of such states as New York, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Minnesota and California, and in the end be praised by every Hoosier for its courage.

"With the closing of nearly seventy banks in the past 18 months in Indiana, the efforts of the Indiana Bankers Association has been to sponsor a so called "Better Banking Practices Program" looking towards greater earnings and stouter banks. This has become our slogan and with a campaign of education among our own members, our hope is to firmly establish the service charge and the County Credit Bureau to the end that increase bank profits will again place the banking profession of Indiana on the high pinnacle of business that it deserves."

At the luncheon the club voted to sponsor the nomination of Milton Brown of this city, for lieutenant governor of the third division of the Indiana District of Kiwanis, at the election to be held soon. The Ki's had one member absent and the Wa's had two members absent, in the membership contest now going on.

REBEL LOSE BLOODY BATTLE TO FEDERALS

BATTERED REMNANTS OF ONCE PROUD ARMY RETREATED INTO HILLS NORTH OF LA REFORMA—FALL INTO FEDERAL TRAP

MEXICO CITY, Apr. 4.—(INS)—The battered remnants of the once proud army of General J. Gonzalo Escobar today retreated into the hills north of La Reforma, Chihuahua after suffering almost complete annihilation at the hands of Gen. J. Andreu Almazan's federal army in one of the bloodiest battles of the present revolution.

The rebels fell into a federal trap at La Reforma, 12 miles north of Jimenez. Evacuating Jimenez after suffering losses estimated at 2,000 in the two-day battle there, what was left of their original army of 6,000, retreated to La Reforma.

There they found that the railway bridge had been burned down the day before by federal cavalry. While attempting to repair the bridge, pursuing federal cavalry led by Gen. Anacleto Lopez fell upon them and the battle began.

The battle waxed furiously. Machine guns on both sides took a heavy toll but the bombs from above soon began to show great effectiveness. From the federal side the rebel dead could be seen lying upon the ground in heaps.

Then came the turning point of the battle. Gen. Almazan sent Gen. Lopez against the rebel left flank. Meanwhile the federal infantry pressed from the front. As the rebels began to give way before this combined attack, another federal cavalry detachment swung into action against the rebel right flank.

This threw the defenders into great confusion. Those of the rebel infantry who had survived, surrendered. Only a few, including the rebel leaders, escaped.

Six rebel trains and a great quantity of supplies and ammunition were captured. The federal army of 12,000 outnumbered the rebels more than two to one. The latter's losses were terrific. It is believed more than 4,000 rebels were killed, wounded or captured in the battles of Jimenez and La Reforma but no estimates have been made by the government as yet.

Military experts at Chapultepec Castle in analyzing dispatches from the front today declared that the battle of La Reforma has practically ended the revolution.

sidering what he had to work on," Dr. humaker observed smilingly.

As Dr. and Mrs. Shumaker started to walk on one of the minor prison officials yelled out:

"Watch you step, Doctor!" There was laughter all around as Dr. Shumaker shouted back:

"I will."

At the prison gates stood an anxious delegation which had braved the torrential downpour to be on hand to greet the noted dry advocate when he stepped forth to liberty again.

There were delegations from the North Indiana Methodist Conference which is in session at Logansport, from the Indiana W. C. T. U. from Indianapolis Churches and from the Indiana Anti-Saloon League.

Ethan A. Miles, the league counsel advanced, shook Dr. Shumaker's hand cordially and then with formally began to read a resolution of welcome and of confidence which the Methodist conference at Logansport adopted unanimously yesterday.

The ceremony was brief but impressive.

Dr. Shumaker said that he planned to go to Logansport Saturday morning and make an address to the conference.

"I have had a very interesting experience," the dry leader told the assemblage. "There were some real thrills and I enjoyed every minute of it. I had the time of my life. I was treated very kindly by all the officials and I am in better health than when I came in."

"The Yellow Back" Is A
Film of The Far North

Depicting a story of absorbing interest and dramatic strength that was filmed amid the wild fastnesses of mountain lakes and snow-clad peaks in the far north, "The Yellow Back," an FBO production will have its initial showing Friday at the Granada theatre.

Tom Moore, Tom Santschi and Irma Harrison are in the leading roles. It is one of James Oliver Curwood's tales of the great outdoors that was depicted with such fidelity on the silver screen and few, if any, contemporaneous writers are equipped to treat of the north country and its picturesque people with the facility and surety that have won Curwood his high rank in the literary world.

Dominating the story is one Jules Breton—great trapper and bully of the trails and settlements in the French-Canadian country, who takes what he wants by force of might and ruthlessly crushes those who stand in his way. He wants a village girl, daughter of a fur trader, and slays a man who dares to oppose him. Upon his trail then comes O'Mara of the Royal Northwest Mounted, young, daring, resolute—and it is upon the clash of these two, with the varying fortunes of desperate battle until the officer, scornfully termed "yellow-back," finally triumphs, that the gripping story is built.

Into it comes an appealing thread of romance when the girl cleaves to her rescuer, saves his life and kindles his love in the midst of dangers that build up tensely to a climactic finale.

THE VONCASTLE

Vivid Action In Movie

With Douglas MacLean

The screen fare at the Voncastle theatre opening today, presents Douglas MacLean in "The Carnation Kid," a fast-moving dramatic story of love, politics, elections, underworld machinations and many other elements of life in a busy city.

Seen with MacLean are quite a number of well known motion picture players including Frances Lee, Lorraine Eddy, William B. Davidson, Charles Hill Mailes, Francis McDonald, Maurice Black and a host of types portraying the politicians and the gangsters and others.

This Paramount-Christie-MacLean production goes through a wide range of fast moving scenes beginning on a train when a typewriter salesman gets mixed up with "The Carnation Kid," a famous gangster from a city where gangsters flourish. There's a romance on the train as well as a holdup; a chase of a girl in a car in the city as well as a chase of the police and the well armed underworld characters; election campaigns with their torchlight parades, a vamping stenographer who falls for "The Carnation Kid's" stories of his exploits, and a typewriter salesman in considerable hot water all the way through.

GIRL WHO FAILED TO GET I. U. SCHOLARSHIP SUES SCHOOL HEAD FOR $1,250

WABASH, Ind., April 3.—Refusal of Howard Williams, Wabash county superintendent of schools, to grant a county scholarship at Indiana university to Miss Katherine O'Connor of near Somerset, resulted in suit being filed against Williams today asking for damages in the sum of $1,250.

COMPROMISE DAMAGE SUIT

The $10,000 damage suit of Mrs. Daisy Hoffmeister, of near Roachdale, against Elmer Blue, county road superintendent, and others, was compromised in the Putnam Circuit court late Wednesday after most of the day had been spent trying to get a jury to try the case.

Under the terms of the written agreement is was reported that the Hoffmeister's are to receive $750 cash and pay their own witness fees. The defendants were to pay court costs.

Mrs. Hoffmeister sued for damages for personal injuries suffered as the result of a collision between an auto driven by her husband, Fred Hoffmeister, and a county road truck at Parkersburg, more than a year ago. It was alleged the truck was blocking the roadway.

Defendants included Elmer Blue, county road superintendent, Albert Alley of Jefferson township, in charge of a stone quarry at Parkersburg; James Doan, owner of the quarry, and the Indian Refining Co., which also had a truck blocking the road, it was alleged.

A big array of attorneys represented the various parties in the suit. Twelve in all represented the defendants and three the plaintiff.
